

SnoopDoge Audit Report

"Because Even Memes Need Accountability"

1. Introduction

Welcome to the official audit of SnoopDoge, the coin that combines financial freedom with the vibes of your favorite uncle at a barbecue—chill, fun, and just slightly mysterious. Unlike traditional audits, this one isn't written in legalese. Instead, it's packed with the same flavor that makes SnoopDoge special: memes, vibes, and a sprinkle of questionable accounting.

2. Smart Contract Overview

- Contract Address:

<https://explorer.multiversx.com/accounts/erd1qqqqqqqqqqqqppgq9ugspgzh3g5qrlxmmch2kul4gy3a2t37984s5rnj47>

This is probably the most legendary MultiversX address we've ever seen. No further questions.

- Code Quality:

- The smart contract is functional and contains over 50 lines of unnecessary comments about "fetching gains" and "keeping it real."
- A function named barkToTheMoon() ensures all holders receive 6.9% of every transaction. Truly innovative.
- Comments in the code suggest the dev team wrote it while "on a vibe."

- Security:

- Rug pulls? None found. (We tried pulling, but the rug seems nailed down.)
- Bugs? We found one function labeled woof(), but it just returns "Good Doge!" for no apparent reason.
- Backdoors? If there is one, it's hidden behind an avalanche of puns.

Audit Verdict: The code works. How? We don't know. But it does.

3. Tokenomics Analysis

- Total Supply: 7,777,777,000,000 (yes, those numbers mean exactly what you think they mean).
- Burn Mechanism:
 - A crisp 77% at launch was burned forever. It's like watching crypto go up in smoke—literally.

- Redistribution:

- 69% of every transaction is redistributed to holders, rewarding them for doing absolutely nothing.

Audit Verdict: Numbers this iconic can only mean one thing: the devs were having fun. And we respect it.

4. Community Review

The SnoopDoge Army is thriving. Telegram is alive with endless memes, X is ablaze with jokes, and Discord? Let's just say it's mostly people typing "to the moon" in all caps.

Audit Verdict: If community engagement were a currency, SnoopDoge would already be worth a trillion dollars.

5. Potential Risks

No audit is complete without highlighting risks, so here are the key concerns:

- Market Volatility: It's a meme coin. If you thought it wouldn't be volatile, welcome to crypto!
- Over-Memification: There's a very real danger the memes could become too good, causing users to forget it's a coin.
- Snoop Dogg Endorsement Risk: Should Snoop himself get involved, the internet might explode from sheer hype.

Audit Verdict: High risk, but also high reward—assuming you like memes and surprises.

6. Conclusion

SnoopDoge is not just a meme coin; it's a movement. While it may not change the world, it's guaranteed to make your portfolio a lot more entertaining. Remember: life is short, but memes are forever.

Final Score: 69/42 (because regular ratings are boring).

Disclaimer: This audit is for entertainment purposes only. We are not responsible for any mooning, barking, or unexpected gains.

Signed:

The Totally Legit Audit Firm
"We Bark for Quality"